Review of The Boy, The Mole, The Fox and The Horse

Title: The Boy, The Mole, The Fox and The Horse

Author: Charlie Mackesy

Movie adaptation: Directed by Peter Baynton and Charlie Mackesy

Genre: Adventure, friendship and inspiration

Plot

The Boy, the Mole, the Fox and the Horse tells the story of a lonely boy who meets three unusual friends and travels across fields, forests and snowy landscapes in search of a place to belong. During their journey, they share thoughtful conversations and learn important lessons about friendship, kindness and courage while discovering that everyone faces challenges sometimes (even when they seem strong).

Who are the main characters?

The four main characters are the Boy, the Mole, the Fox and the Horse. The Boy is thoughtful and curious, the Mole is kind and funny, the Fox is loyal and brave, and the Horse is wise and gentle. Although they are all very different, they support one another and show the importance of trust, acceptance and friendship.

My opinion

I really enjoyed The Boy, the Mole, the Fox and the Horse because its messages are powerful and easy to understand. The illustrations are beautiful, the dialogue is meaningful and the lessons are inspiring. My favourite character was the Mole because he is cheerful, honest and caring, and he often brings humour to the story.

My recommendation

I would definitely recommend this book and movie to Year 5 children and their families because it teaches valuable lessons about resilience, hope and kindness. Although the story is not full of action, it encourages readers to reflect on what really matters in life. If you enjoy heart-warming stories with memorable characters and positive messages, you will love this one.
